Self-learning box

Photo-elicitation

A practical guide to its application

A Purpose of the Box

This box guides students, university teachers, researchers, practitioners, and other interested audiences in understanding photo-elicitation, exploring its stages and key methodological decisions, analyzing real-world cases, and experimenting with photographs to learn how to design and apply the method reflectively.

B What is Inside the Box and What Each Element is for

1. Essential Reading and Analysis Materials

1. Introduction to the methodology

Understand what it is, what it brings to the table, and when to use it.

2. Implementation stages and key points

Design, conduct, analyze, and share the process.

3. Visual examples

Recognize different ways to take and prepare photos.

2. Add-ons for Digging Deeper: Three Application Examples and a Guide

4. Case 1 · Childhood

Analizes and explores children's voices.

5. Case 2 · Autism

Analyzes support, norms, and participation.

6. Case 3 · Refugee families

It analyzes territory, language and care.

7. Intersectional Gaze Guide

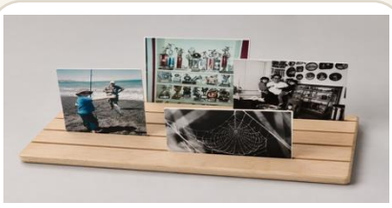

Reviews power, support, absences and decisions.

Hands-on Materials for Applying the Methodology

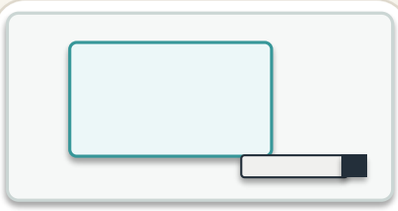

Four individual supports

It helps to hold a photograph, helps to focus the conversation or compare several images side-by-side.

Grooved wooden base

It helps to sort, group, zoom in, or separate multiple photos during conversation and analysis.

Transparent foil + marker as photo cover

It makes it easier to point out details, delimit areas, mark relationships or make annotations without spoiling the photograph.

C How to Use the Box

Suggested pathway You can follow it in its entirety or go directly to the material you need.

1

Explore

Read the reading and analysis materials. Learn about the phases and criteria of application, they will help you understand the feasibility and foresee possible difficulties.

2

Analyze

The three cases will help you understand the technique and improve the intersectional gaze with the guide

3

Watch

The manipulative materials in the box will make your work easier

4

Create

Apply what you have learned to comply with the indications or challenge that have been indicated to you in class.
